DETAILED ACTION

Pending Claims

Claims 1-7 are pending.

Response to Amendment

1. The rejection of claims 1-7 under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement, has been overcome by amendment.
2. The rejection of claims 1-7 under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as based on a disclosure which is not enabling (regarding the liquid phase base thermoset component), has been overcome by amendment.
3. The rejection of claims 1-7 under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as based on a disclosure which is not enabling (regarding the specific sequence of process steps), has been overcome by amendment.
4. The rejection of claims 1-7 under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being incomplete for omitting essential steps, has been overcome by amendment.
5. The rejection of claims 1-7 under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being incomplete for omitting essential structural cooperative relationships of elements, has been overcome by amendment.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 1-7 are allowed.
7. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Art Unit: 1796

Morganelli et al. (US 7,047,633) disclose a similar method wherein a thermoset composition with expandable filler is first B-staged. The expandable filler does not expand during the B-stage process. The B-staged material is subsequently heated and cured during a reflow process. This reflow process also causes the expandable filler to expand during curing, yielding closed-cell foam. The one difference between the instant invention and Morganelli et al. is that the expansion step of Morganelli et al. does not take place in a cured matrix.

Wycech (US Pat. No. 4,751,249) and Erb et al. (US 2005/0027025) disclose processes and products related to the instant invention. However, these prior art references do not disclose an expansion step in a cured matrix.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Art Unit: 1796
